Co-op Mailbox is Tampered With at Grants Post Office

During the weekend of September 23-24, Continental Divide's mailbox was vandalized at the U.S. Post Office in Grants. While it doesn't appear that any mail was taken, we cannot confirm that it wasn't. The local postmaster was notified, and a police report was filed.

Mail is considered private property, and tampering with someone's mail violates their expectation of privacy. At Continental Divide, we check our mailbox twice daily on regular business days. We also check our office deposit boxes daily. The co-op also offers automatic bank withdrawal and accepts phone and online payments as alternatives to mailing of utility payments.

All of our payment options can be found on our website at cdec.coop/payment-options
